At the end of last year I broke up with the man I thought was the love of my life. We've all been through it; we all know about the tears, the heartache, the sleepless nights, the depression and also loss of self confidence. Well I was no exception to this. A very good friend of mine saw a massive change in me and was really concerned about how little I was sleeping and how it was beginning to affect my career. She suggested I should drink Aloe Vera Gel to help me feel more energetic during the day and also sleep well at night. Of course I began drinking it, just a little each day; I thought I had nothing to loose so gave it a try.

After a couple of weeks I was back to my old self, and sceptically I just thought 'it's been a while now, I'm obviously just getting over the ex'. But kept drinking the gel just in case it was actually the reason I could wake up in the morning looking forward to another day. But then something truly amazing happened; the same friend that recommended me the Aloe had 3 cats, and every time I had ever visited her house, I would cough, sneeze and wheeze all night and the symptoms would also affect me the next day. On this particular day I went round armed with my antihistamine pills, inhaler, epi-pens and tissues and didn't use them the entire evening. 'Too good to be true' I thought to myself so I tried again; I went round to all my friends that had cats and dogs and amazingly I only sneezed a couple of times. INCREDIBLE!!!

When I was 4 I was diagnosed with a severe nut allergy that is potentially life threatening. I have had to plan my life around possible exposure to nuts and have always had to carry medication. After a month of me drinking the gel my Mum had seen her bubbly daughter come back to life again and wanted to know what had changed. I told her all about Forever Living Products and she could not believe it. Then she really put it to the test; she bought a huge bag of peanuts and chewed them right in front of me, breathing right in my face. I sniffed the bag and also peanut butter and I could breathe perfectly, not a sneeze, no pills required, no sickness, no burning rash . . . A MIRACLE!

I am now into my third month of using Forever Living products; I take the gel as part of my daily routine now and will drink it for the rest of my life. I can now consider getting a pet, I can go to parties, and visit my friends anytime I like without having to worry as I can be in the same room as nuts and cats at the same time and rarely suffer any of the symptoms I had before.

Because I want to share this amazing product with as many people as possible I have now joined the company and heard of the other amazing benefits of Aloe Vera. I would urge everyone to take a look at Forever Living Products; it really has changed my life!!!
